

The Projected Picture Trust

Established 1978

The Projected Picture Trust has now moved their collection of cinema projectors and ancillary equipment to a new storage and restoration facility in G-Mill at Dean Clough Halifax. This facility will not be open to the general public for viewing but so that members and interested parties can see what has been happening over the past few months we are having an open day on January 24th between 10.00 am and 4.00 pm.

The day will offer the visitor a rare opportunity to see what is probably the largest collection of cinema projectors in the country today. It will also give an insight into what the PPT are doing to preserve the collection and hopefully encourage more people to come forward and help with this exciting new project.

Dean Clough is a large complex on the site of the Crossley Carpet Mills in Halifax. The site also offers restaurants, art galleries, and a theatre. If you would like to attend and require further details please drop me an e-mail to
